

The Workshop

We combine elements of three Thriving Planet workshops: the Laboratory of Life, Tree Love: Heart of the Forest, and Planet Healing, Planet Thriving. The Laboratory of Life constellational process informs them all. Each workshop is tailored to those attending and is therefore unique.

We exist within a complex multidimensional web of relationship that transcends time and space. As we heal ancient limiting patterns, we become able to tap into greater levels of freedom and capability and can take part in the magnificent creation that is this universe.

Because the method is experiential, rather than didactic, the results are profound. It provides you with an opportunity to learn deeply about yourself and how to transform the underlying energetic patterns that inform your reality.

*Join us for healing, for growing,
for learning, for your relationships,
for your career, for love, for fun,
for communion, for realizing your Self,
for world service, for evolution...*

Rev. Dr. Elisa Novick, D.S.S.

Elisa has dedicated her life to providing profound healing and transformation through her counseling-coaching practice for over 37 years and has facilitated over 1600 workshops in 18 countries. She is a healer, minister, initiate, and Lightworker. She believes that attunement to spiritual intelligence and alignment with our inner truth are keys to a joyful, fulfilling life and the healing and thriving of our planet.

Elisa is passionate about preserving our forests so we all can flourish. "Not only the other half of our lungs, trees may be the other half of our hearts." She is writing a series of Tree Love books about the astonishing interactions she has with magnificent fully sentient trees and others in the natural and spiritual worlds and their "Project" to replenish the life force on Earth.

Elisa's pursuit of the highest good in relationship to life, the planet, to our fellow beings, is a real joy to be a part of. She is creative, tenacious, joyful, and devoted. Be prepared to dig deep and fly high!

Laboratory of Life

The Laboratory of Life is endlessly creative and totally fascinating because everyone participating is making discoveries about themselves and their worlds. Even though the process can be profoundly serious in what it means to us, when we are engaged in new learning that can illuminate every part of our lives, there is an excitement that arises spontaneously.

It can be touching, delightful, mind-blowing, tender, uplifting. There can be laughter or tears, deep welling of emotion, or the most subtle, quiet, beautiful whisper of an inner current. The precision and elegant nuance call forth the master artist in each of us and bring us totally present. We are becoming more of ourselves, who we truly are. This work is highly personal and accessible as well as spiritually uplifting — without limits in its application.

I am deeply moved by Elisa's gifts as an interpreter and healer. Her beautiful and subtle ability to awaken our atrophied intuitive senses, begins a healing that is fundamentally life-changing. Time and again I have experienced and observed her accurately naming physical, spiritual, and emotional "dis-ease," and then drawing on her myriad skills to penetrate, restore, retune, and invite health and joy.

Elisa's work is central — it is powerful and ground-breaking.

Tree Love

I walked down a forest path and was met by a wave of love emanating from a magnificent and noble oak tree. Since then I've learned that there is sentience in trees beyond anything most people have ever suspected. Each tree is unique in personality and abilities. We can learn to perceive their messages and partner with them to save and renew life on earth.

Utilizing the subtle attunement we've cultivated in the Laboratory of Life with trees, we begin to know ourselves as loving co-creators in the life of the planet. This process enables you to heighten your perception and inner knowing.

Once you've experienced a loving connection with a tree, there are friends everywhere. They are not only the other half of our lungs; they may also be the other half of our hearts. The unconditional love and spiritual gifts that the trees bestow will change your life forever. The trees hold keys for the survival and replenishing of life — and love — on Earth.

There is an unfathomable joy in me as a result of being with the trees. A deep longing has surfaced for communication with these beings whose work is on the very deepest level imaginable. There is a sense of starting something that the world has been waiting for humans to initiate, to bring about, with our joint efforts, the healing of the planet.

— Francis M., cellist, violin maker

Planet Thriving

We have the ability to co-create new coherent, exquisite patterns of healing and thriving to act as energetic blueprints for a wholesome trajectory for our world. These patterns become available as organizing principles for the highest good of all.

When group consciousness is aligned with sincere intention in harmony, without sacrificing our unique individual selves, we begin to develop abilities we rarely achieve by ourselves. Information becomes available that was not known before, and we can enter into service to the whole.

If you have wished or prayed to be able to serve in a greater way, creating the world we want starts with us.

The Laboratory of Life is the spiritual work that lights me up the brightest. I feel as if I am doing what I came to do, realizing my purpose on Earth. My own personal transformation is being achieved at warp speed, blocks from my true being are removed layer by layer.

I gain insights and subtle but profound learnings for my life.
